Enriching Girls' Lives Through Golf in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware

FALL 2023

WGGB Celebrates 20 Years

Women Golfers Give Back had the joy of hosting our friends, family and alumnae to celebrate our 20th Anniversary this fall. Our hearts were moved by remarks from Becky Dengler, First Tee – Delaware coach; Joanna Coe, former grantee and current Director of Instruction at Merion Golf Club; Isabella DiLisio, former grantee and now a volunteer and mentor to our girls while continuing to compete; and the remarkable Anna Firko, a high school student who has found confidence, empowerment and a love for golf through WGGB's programs.

The crowd was 100+ strong at Waynesborough Country Club and couldn't resist a standing ovation as we recognized WGGB's founder, AK Frazier, for her leadership and vision. Moving forward, we're excited to present the new AK Frazier Cup to the winners of our annual tournament in her honor.

We'd like to thank everyone who made the evening – and the past 20 years – a success! In particular, we thank members of the original WGGB board, pictured above, who laid the foundation for the next 20 years of changing girls' lives through golf.

WOMEN GOLFERS GIVE BACK

Vision

A world where girls find equal opportunity and personal growth through golf.

Mission

To enrich girls' lives by providing access to golf through programs that teach golf skills, foster connections, and promote leadership and character development for girls who would not otherwise have the opportunity.

From the Heart: Kate's Day With WGGB

Kate Marsden (second from right), a talented 14-year-old golfer who participates in a grantee program at Makefield Highlands Golf Club, attended WGGB's Annual Tournament in June. She participated in the morning five-hole outing with girls from other programs and played in the afternoon tournament with more experienced female mentees. She graciously shared her thoughts with us on the experience:

"While I met several incredible mentors during the event, I connected particularly well with two experienced golfers, Erin Martin and Courtney Curcio from PGA REACH. They shared similar playing styles and spent time discussing various techniques and strategies with me. It was a full day of golfing, fun and learning!

I learned about various aspects of the game, including refining my swing technique, improving my putting skills, and understanding the importance of mental focus during a round of golf. Moreover, I gained insights into the etiquette and sportsmanship that embody the spirit of the game.

I would definitely encourage peers to participate in future Women Golfers Give Back events. The opportunity to connect with inspiring mentors, forge new friendships, and play on a beautiful golf course is an experience like no other. It's a chance to nurture your love for golf and grow as a golfer, both technically and personally."

Thank you for sharing your experience, Kate!

We could not have asked for more beautiful summer weather to host ten of our grantees at Merion Golf Club for a WGGB Mentoring Day. On August 2, 2023, these top performers from our Players Programs played Merion West alongside a Merion women's golf mentor, and then, the top four finishers had the privilege of playing the famous 18th hole at Merion East. Congratulations to all the girls for a day of impressive golf, and thank you, Merion Women, for hosting us again this year!

Letter From WGGB President

Dear Friends of WGGB,

What an exciting 20 years for Women Golfers Give Back. Yes, that is correct, 20 years! We have granted more than $1.8 million in that time to support 19 golf programs that align with our mission of fostering connections, leadership and character development in girls who would not otherwise have that opportunity. Thank you for making this possible with your time, talent and financial support.

Our 2023 annual golf tournament was once again a huge success at Whitemarsh Valley Country Club, raising more than $256,000.

Thank you to Alexis Hollander, Meghan Holobetz, Leila Mackie, and Rachel Shearon for such a successful event. Thank you to our Lead Sponsor, Goldman Sachs; to the Live Scoring Sponsor, Zisman Family Foundation; Dinner Sponsor, Grant Thornton; and to our Girls Clinic & Lunch Sponsor, Penn Mutual.

Next year, the tournament will be at St. Davids Golf Club in Wayne, PA. Please save the date for June 17, 2024.

Our coaches, Board, and volunteers continually work to advance our mission and improve how we operate. Under the leadership of Executive Director Rachel Shearon and our many volunteer committees, we were able to give $140,000 in grants to eight clinic programs and seven players programs in 2023 and host other events, including:

- “Girls Off Course” at Golf Galaxy to get the rust off before golf season began
- WGGB Mentoring Day, where girls from our programs played Merion West while spending the day with a member from Merion
- Supporting volunteer recruitment at the 36th USGA Women’s Mid-Amateur Championship at Stonewall
- “Get Golf Ready” at Gulph Mills, sponsored by EY, for professional women
- Our 20th Anniversary Celebration at Waynesborough

As they roll off our Board, we’d like to thank Wendy Kennedy, Becky Sanderson, and Leila Mackie for their years of service. Wendy was an instrumental part of WGGB, running the golf tournament for several years. Co-chairs of the Grantee and Tournament Committees, respectively, Becky and Leila will continue to contribute to WGGB as volunteers.

We would also like to welcome Jenna Sorrano Longen and Libbie Warner, co-chairs of WGGB’s 2024 tournament, and Loraine Jones, new co-chair of the Grantee Committee, to the Board. A PGA and LPGA professional who has taught WGGB clinics for several years, Jenna is the PA/DE Territory Manager for XXIO and the head coach for the Episcopal Academy girls’ golf team. Libbie is part of the Direct Equity team at Hamilton Lane and a member of Merion Golf Club. She was a two-year captain of the Women’s Golf Team at Hamilton College and today serves as a mentor for both The GolfBridge Society and Big Brothers Big Sisters. Loraine is a long-time member of the Merion Golf Club women’s team and will work closely with WGGB’s grantee programs.

In closing, I want to express my heartfelt gratitude to Alexandra Frazier. After 20 years of giving unlimited hours, resources and commitment to WGGB as our Founder and President, AK retired in 2023. AK built the foundation for us to grow and give back for years to come. We will carry on the legacy you created and continue to impact girls’ lives through golf.

To all our supporters, I want to express how much we appreciate your unwavering trust and support in believing in our mission. Your commitment and support are the cornerstones upon which we are building a brighter future. Hopefully some of the stories in this newsletter bring to life the impact you have made. Please consider a donation before year-end in the enclosed envelope or online to help continue our mission. Together we make a difference in girls’ lives.

Many Opportunities for Development on the PKBGT

For several years, WGGB has supported the Peggy Kirk Bell Girls Golf Tour, a national girls-only tour that strives to grow girls' participation and interest in the game. Our grants helped PKBGT develop a Delaware Valley and New Jersey series, which welcomed 127 local participants ranging in age from 9 to 18 during the 2023 season. They hosted 14 tournaments, as well as two national events.

"The PKBGT is foremost about opportunity. We aim to enrich the lives of the girls through a structured environment of skill and personal development through on-course golf competitions," said a representative of the tour, which has sent 1,200 girls on to collegiate programs. "The exposure the tour provides to collegiate coaches is the final enrichment which prepares these girls for success in their future lives."

Here are just a few examples of the girls' success.

Danielle Higbee has become a top 100 player on the PKBGT. A Mickleton, NJ, resident, she recently shot in the 70s at Pine Needles, the site of last year's U.S. Women's Open. Prior to the program, she felt other tours too heavily favored boys. She credits the Delaware Valley series as the key in developing her game.

Vidhi Lakhawala of Kendall Park, NJ, was selected to the PKBGT's inaugural E-Leader Player Council, a significant achievement considering the tour's 1,200 player membership. Like Higbee, she appreciates that the tour is geared strictly towards girls and enjoys the opportunity to play on some of the country's most beloved and challenging courses.

She recently qualified for the Tour Championship alongside her sister, Aditi. Their father shares, "PKBGT has given both my girls and all girls a great platform to go out there, be themselves, be comfortable, and express who they are. We are very grateful that our girls have such a platform to develop their game, develop as a person, and meet other girls."

Five WGGB Grantees Learn From Golf Legend Annika Sorenstam

In early August, five WGGB grantees from Makefield Highlands had the unique opportunity to attend an intimate clinic with 11-time major champion and women's golf legend Annika Sorenstam at Rolling Green Golf Club. It preceded a fundraiser golf outing for The ANNIKA Foundation, whose mission aligns with WGGB by empowering the next generation of women through the game of golf while teaching young people the importance of personal development, including living a healthy, active lifestyle through fitness and nutrition.

Carl St. Pierre, father of one WGGB attendee, said of the experience, "My daughter, Christina, really enjoyed the clinic and advice that Annika provided to the girls. In fact, Christina had her first high school golf match [just after] and used some of Annika's advice.... It boosted her confidence, as she had been very frustrated and struggling with her golf game leading up to her match, and Annika helped her refocus to concentrate on the next shot."

Thank you to The ANNIKA Foundation for inviting WGGB grantees to participate in this once-in-a-lifetime opportunity!

2023 WGGB Girls Clinic & Fundraising Tournament

Women Golfers Give Back was thrilled to mark our 20th Anniversary year with another successful Charity Tournament this June. Thank you to all our sponsors, grantees and supporters for helping WGGB raise funds for next year's girls golf grantee programs. Also, thank you to Whitemarsh Valley Country Club for hosting the tournament and to Member for a Day for running our online auction of 33 unique golf experiences, which raised more than $75,000.

The day started with a clinic for our younger grantees with LPGA and PGA pros and a 5-hole competition for our older grantees. After lunch, 21 foursomes of WGGB sponsors and supporters competed in a one best-ball tournament followed by cocktails and dinner. Once again, long-time WGGB supporter and LPGA Hall of Fame member Val Skinner graced us with her presence and beautiful swing on a par-3.

We were thrilled to partner again with Pros Fore Clothes, which, in combination with WGGB board and volunteers' clothing drives, filled several tables with golf clothes, shoes and gear for our grantees to select from and expand their on-course wardrobes.

You can find photos of the girls in action, 7-hole tournament winners, and our afternoon tournament on the WGGB Facebook page! Thank you, Trey Runkle from Outside the Cut and Charles Oliva Photography, for capturing so many special memories from the day.

Once-in-a-Lifetime Golf Experiences Alongside the Pros

FIRST TEE JERSEY SHORE

This was an exciting year for women's golf in New Jersey, where several LPGA golf tournaments were played, and First Tee Jersey Shore's young golfers were right there as part of the action. WGGB funding has given First Tee Jersey Shore, a new grantee as of 2022, the opportunity to focus the time and resources needed to expand its LPGA*USGA Girls Golf programming and introduce these once-in-a-lifetime experiences for juniors.

The highlight was the Cognizant Founders Cup, where younger participants represented the 13 original founders of the LPGA at Upper Montclair Country Club by dressing up like each founder in true period costumes and "walking up the 18th hole" with each LPGA group as they finished their round. They also helped present the winner with the trophy. Additionally, four of Jersey Shore's eLeaders played in the Pro-Am, and two eLeaders earned a week-long "behind the scenes" internship with the Founders Cup tournament organizers.

First Tee Jersey Shore participants also had the opportunity to volunteer at the Mizuho Americas Open at Liberty National Golf Club, where four girls were standard bearers, and they worked the practice range at the LPGA Shoprite Classic at Seaview Golf Club. Eight girls from the program were also invited to play with LPGA pros in a Pro-Am at Galloping Hill Golf Course.

During the 2023 season, First Tee Jersey Shore programs served 21 eLeaders, who are coaches/volunteers ages 13–18, and nearly 100 younger participants, ages 4–13. More than half of the younger players were introduced to golf through First Tee Jersey Shore's weekly programs and single-day girls clinics. At these clinics, 30–40 girls practice together regularly, making new friends, laughing and having fun while learning and refining their golf skills.

First Tee Jersey Shore had eight older girls accepted into the LPGA*USGA Girls Golf Leadership Academy held at USGA headquarters in July, and one of its eLeaders, Caprina Yarosz, was one of just 13 girls to join the LPGA*USGA Girls Golf National Board of Directors.

First Tee Jersey Shore
shared this feedback from its participants about their experiences:

"I have met an amazing group of friends that I can play golf with, since I am the only female on my school team!"

RUBY, AGE 16

"I have become a more confident and resilient person as a result of my girls golf program. I have found people I can trust and that I know have my back."

SABRINA, AGE 16

"This program is like a family to me; they have supported me during all of my ups and downs."

CAPRINA, AGE 16

"I love mentoring and coaching the young girls, sharing my journey with them, and encouraging them to have BIG DREAMS."

BELLA, AGE 18

Where Are They Now?

WGGB Alumna Isabella DiLisio

Isabella DiLisio got an early start as a promising golfer. Encouraged by her father, she began playing golf at Lederach Golf Club, a public course, around age 10. Soon after, Isabella joined Mary's Girls, an early WGGB grantee program for girls who are interested in golf but aren't members of a private club. Isabella showed early promise, as Mary's Girls awarded her a $2,000 scholarship that helped support her Junior membership to Talamore Country Club.

While Isabella felt she had a natural swing from her days playing baseball, she also had a natural desire to practice and improve on her own. She also credits LPGA*USGA Girls' Golf, coached by Jane Cousanis and Cheryl Foxwith, with setting her on the path to a successful golf career. They taught her golf skills and culture while introducing her to healthy competition. She says, "This program is why I stuck with it at that age."

Isabella chose to attend high school at Mount Saint Joseph's Academy because of its excellent girl's golf team. She capped off an exceptional high school record by winning the PIAA individual championship. From there, she went on to Notre Dame, where she learned an invaluable lesson: staying healthy as a golfer means doing the right workouts. Isabella clearly took that lesson to heart, as she played in every golf tournament throughout her four years, which she views as a great accomplishment because it meant playing through injuries and balancing academic life.

After graduation, Isabella accepted a job offer rather than pursuing a professional golf career. Her wisdom and experience shine through: "I wanted to love golf my whole life. What's great about golf is you can have a long competitive amateur career after college."

Always with a smile, Isabella is a shining star, both on the course and off. She has had great success at Philadelphia Cricket Club (PCC), the USGA Mid-Am, Inter-City matches, and local and national competitions. Additionally, she gives back as a member of WGGB's grant committee. Isabella credits WGGB for the early support she received that set her on this amazing golf and life journey.

WGGB Alumna Tessa Posey

One might wonder how playing golf is related to pursuing a Ph.D. in chemical engineering – this is something that might best be explained by Tessa Posey. "Golf taught me: if you train, work hard, you can get better at what you are passionate about," says Tessa. And it's that early lesson that has driven Tessa in life and as she pursues her goal of working in the biomedical engineering field to develop new technology for therapeutic drug delivery.

At about age seven, Tessa began golfing with her father at Honeybrook Golf Club. Cathy Reynolds, a pro at Honeybrook, introduced Tessa to the LPGA*USGA Girls' Golf of Valley Forge program, where she would hone her skills and later assist Cathy in teaching younger girl golfers. Tessa went on to participate in the WGGB Players' Program, where her golf skills advanced and she learned proper nutrition for golf, as well as continued expanding her social skills to be successful in both golf and life.

Tessa became one of few girls on the Conestoga High School golf team, where she "held her own" and learned to comfortably compete in a predominantly male environment. While she initially considered playing collegiate golf, she was ultimately happy she did not, as her academic pursuits in biomedical engineering at the University of South Carolina were quite demanding. And Tessa's academic career hasn't slowed down, she is currently in her third year of a Ph.D. program for Chemical Engineering at the University of Delaware.

Tessa believes golf has contributed to her academic success because it has been a great social skill builder. While she had a wonderful female role model, her mother, who is also an engineer, Tessa also credits her golf experiences for her comfort in the competitive, male-dominated engineering field. There is no doubt that the combination of Tessa's golf experiences and personal achievements will lead to continued success, and we look forward to hearing what she does next.

Where Are They Now: WGGB Alumna Paige Poteat

Paige Poteat is an inspirational example of how starting golf at a young age instills life lessons that foster success well beyond the course. Paige, now 25 years old, joined The First Tee – Delaware after hearing the coach speak at her school when she was in Kindergarten. The First Tee – Delaware, a long-time WGGB grantee, is a co-ed golf program for kids; however, it was at a special session for girls where Charma Bell, a coach/program director, made a huge impact on Paige that drew her to pursue golf.

Through The First Tee, Paige attended and participated in a WGGB-sponsored golf tournament in Phoenixville, PA, which she shared was an eye-opening experience – it was the first time she competed with all girls! Paige continued to play golf through high school and represented the Delaware chapter nationally at The First Tee's 2017 National Network Meeting event. Her two sisters have recently followed in her footsteps by participating in The First Tee.

Paige received her degree from Eastern University in 2021, making her the first in her family to graduate college. She is currently pursuing positions in social work to assist children at risk while also readying herself to apply to law school. Her long-term goal is to own her own law firm that focuses on child and family advocacy.

Paige credits both her mother ("a superstar!") and her golf coaches with making her the amazing woman she is today. Their support in her pursuit of golf provided Paige with growth opportunities to learn and experience lessons in confidence, integrity, perseverance and resilience – all of which are mantras she continues to live by. Additionally, Paige continues to share these same life lessons with the next generation of young golfers as a volunteer coach with The First Tee – Delaware. Paige's journey from young golfer to inspirational role model is a testament to the positive impact of getting girls involved in the game of golf!

All-Female Caddie Academy Launches at First Tee Greater Philadelphia

First Tee – Greater Philadelphia has been a grant recipient from WGGB for more than a decade. As you've read in our newsletter over the years, the program's participants of all ages have benefited from opportunities at a national and local level to develop their skills and become true game changers.

New for 2023, First Tee – Greater Philadelphia hosted an all-female Caddie Academy. Over two sessions, the girls learned from experienced female caddies about what caddying involves and the opportunities it can present, such as the Evans Scholarship, which covers full college tuition and housing for outstanding students and caddies with limited financial means. Some of the guest speakers were Evans Scholars themselves. Participants then got their first on-course experience, carrying bags for nine holes at Walnut Lane for First Tee donors.

At the end of the program, 10 girls were placed at local golf clubs, including Caitlyn Plover at Whitmarsh Valley. She shared that her favorite part about caddying is the people and the connections she makes out on the course.

You may remember Caitlyn from our 2020 newsletter. Five years earlier, at just seven years old and in her first WGGB clinic, she had suggested First Tee – Greater Philadelphia host a fashion show to help raise funds for the program. The idea came to life in 2018 thanks to a partnership with Lilly Pulitzer, and The First Tee Tea Time Girls Golf Tournament & Fashion Show is now an annual event. We loved hearing that Caitlyn, now 16 years old, continues to carry the life lessons she's learned through golf to new heights.
